THE HORSE AND COLT SHOW

Colonel Dulaney's, Retirement After Serving for Fifty Years.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

UPPERVILLE, VA., May 27.—At no time in equine history has the outlook for the Upperville Colt and Horse Show been so promising. The classes have been added to and revised, and in many instances the premiums enlarged, so that even from a pecuniary point of view the catalogue is more inviting than ever to

The Upperville Colt and Horse Show may well be termed "the mother of horse

The Upperville Colt and Horse Show may well be termed "the mother of horse shows," with its birth dating from 1853, when a friendly rivairy sprang up between the people of this section as to the better qualities of their horses, and in that year was held the maiden show.

Colonel R. H. Dulany, a true lover of the horse, was unanimously chosen president, and held the office until the present year, when he tendered his resignation on account of his mability to hear distinctly. He has more than reached the four score mark, yet his admiration for the horse remains the same. The resignation was accepted with great rejuctance, and it was a pathetic scene to see him leave the office that he had held for more than afty years with honor untarnished and whose rulings had always been marked by honesty and fairness. The Colonel is the true type of the Virginia gentleman, whose honor is his pride and whose hospitality is unquestioned. Just before retiring he assured all that his interest in the show should not lessen, and after asking the special privilege of entertaining the executive committee at least once a year, he placed in nomination the name of the vice-president. Mr. Willie Fletcher, as his successor.

Mr. Fletcher was elected without a dissenting voice, and his unimpeachable character, linked with his highest business qualifications and gentlemanly bearing, befit him for the high duties of president.

senting voice, and his unimpeachable character, linked with his highest buishness qualifications and gentlemanly bearing, befit him for the high duites of president.

The secretary, Captain P, S. Gochnauer, a one-armed veteran of the civil strife, whose integrity and uprightness of charter and devotion to duty in peace as well as in war, was also chosen unanimously to succeed himself.

The directors are all representative men, and with such an executive committee at the helm, why should not the coming show on June 15th and 16th surpass any that has yet been held?

Situated in the famous Pledmont section of the State, abounding in blue grass, equal to that of 'old Kentucky,' so accessary for the development of bone and sinew, and where healthful conditions exist, horses here rank with those of any country. Indeed, I might mention instances where they have been awarded the blue in Baitimore, Richmond, Philadelphia and New York shows. It was only a few days ago that 'Red Raven,' owned and bred by Rogers Brothers, of Hamilton, Va., carried off the honors at Baltimore, and was sold to Mr. Sidney Holloway for $1,000, and again when "Eagle," owned by Mr. H. M. Lintrell, of Delaplain, Va., was hought by F. W. Okle, of New York, and H. S. Oknard, of California, fully realizing the advantages or solt and climate offered here, have both established stock farms in this vicinity, the former on the farm of N. R. Williams, where can be found a string of thoroughbreds of the highest class and type; the latter has purchased more than a thousand acres of our best land and brought into existence the Blue Ridge Stud. From both stables have gone horses that have made both themselves and owners famous.

The catalogue for this exhibition offers every attraction to the sportsman, with its hunter, thoroughbred, park saddle, pony, quick draft, combination, tandem and four-in-hand, classes, and yet it is not unmindful of the farmer, to whom the success of the enterprise is due, with its gaited saddle class and the heavy draft horses, fro

Mr. J. G. Sterling, of Winston-Salem, N. C., sends me the following breezy notes from there:

These are busy days at the Piedmont Training Stables. Manager J. Thack Snydar is kept busy. Perhaps never before have our local horsemen shown more interest in horsefiesh. The auto is not crowding the horse in this city. There is a large crowd at the track daily to see the workouts. Some of the horses in the stables are such well-

Avoidance of luxury is a point of honor among Japanese fighters. "All know the story about General Nogl. says a writer, "who when, during the China war he was presented with a costly cloak, sold it for the benefit of the sick, declaring that he had one cloak already and there were many soldiers without any. An officer would consider himself disgraced if he took into the field elaborate food or overabundant clothing."

The spring race meeting of the Mrfolk Horse Show and Fair Association, which began on Tuesday, the 16th instant and closed the following Friday, was a success in spite of rather unfavorable weather conditions. Good sized fields competed in the different events for harness horses, runners and steeple-chasers, and sport of a very fair order was furnished. Vice-President, H. B. Goodridge, presided in the judges' stand, while Manager C. W. Smith was on hand daily and supervised matters in general. Mr. Smith has closed a three-years contract with the Association and being a veteran in the horse show and racing lipe his services should prove viluable. The Association will hold another meeting in August and the annual horse show and fall race meeting will take place in October.

Among the trainers who are working stables of trotters and pacers over the fair Grounds tracks at Roamoke, Value are George F. Dyer and Homer Jamison. Dyer had a good campaigner out last season in the gray pacer. Honest Joe, 2:13-1-4, now dead, and the year provious he won a number of races with the pacer. Little Belle, 2:13-1-4, by Sidney. His string now includes the pacer, Sadie Temple, 2:18-1-4, and some promising green horses. Jamison is working for speed the trio of pacer, Minute Thompson, 2:19-1-4; Jack Horner, 2:29; and King Max, by King Nutwood, who has no record, but is fast.
